

Midwest Thoroughbred™

The New Voice of Horsemen in Racing's Heartland

And they're off....Horse Player NOW Night School Chats

Horseplayernow.com Night School Chats got off to a fast start on June 21 with a session on "Approaching a Day at the Races".

Hosted by noted handicappers, Joe Kristufek and Jeremy Plonk, and Arlington Park's David Zenner, guests are invited to join the chat room to discuss various handicapping and racing subjects, including betting strategies, or to just plain talk about their personal passion....horses!

A main goal of the Night School Chats is to teach players how to become a more successful horseplayer. Each Night School Chat is devoted to a particular topic where their experts will be able to answer questions and moderate lively chats where opinions can be exchanged to make a better learning experience for all. Detailed descriptions of topics are available prior to each chat.

Among the most interesting question posed during the hour-long first session was "What's it going to take for a horse to win the Triple Crown?" Another guest asked a very practical question that many players might want to know, "How would you approach a day at the races with a small bankroll, say, and $100 for the day?"

Here are the remaining Night School Chat sessions:

Monday, July 12 - Wagering Strategies - 7 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Monday, July 19 - Jockey/Trainer Handicapping - 7 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Monday, Aug. 2 - Reading Between the Lines - 7 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Monday, Aug. 16 - Handicapping Turf Races - 7 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Visit www.horseplayernow.com for more information about Horse Player NOW, Night School Chats, or to view past chats, click on the "Night School" button.